BRUTAL ATTACK MADE ON EIGHT YEAR OLD BENTLEYVILLE GIRL

Daughter of Samuel Nixon Goes Out Riding When Invited and Suffers

BENTLEYVILLE MAN ARRESTED

Angry Mob Catches Up With Pair And Mutterings of Attempt on Man's Life Are Heard—State Police Remove Him Quickly to Jail.

The little eight-year-old daughter of Samuel Nixon, proprietor of the Central Hotel at Bentleyville is in a serious condition suffering from shock and bodily injury as the result of an alleged attack by George Crumrine aged 36 years of near Bentleyville, shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night. Crumrine was taken to the Washington county jail Sunday morning by four state troopers stationed at Fredericktown. He will be brought back for a hearing probably before Justice of the Peace George Beck.

Crumrine stated Sunday that he did not have any recollection of committing the brutal act. He said he was under the influence of liquor at the time and was not responsible.

Crumrine came to Bentleyville Saturday afternoon by buggy. He was out driving in the evening and about 10 o'clock went past the hotel. He asked the little girl if she would like to take a ride with him and she was only too glad to jump into the buggy, according to the story. The two left the town streets and started out the Pittsburg road.

After a while the child did not return and her parents grew worried over her absence. Searching parties were formed and started out to look for the little gorl. The child and Crumrine were found about one-half mile from town. He was threatening her with death by drowning when one of the searching parties approached, it is said.

In the party was Samuel Nixon, father of the little girl. When he realized what had happened he leaped forward, caught Crumrine and kicked and beat him until dragged off by other members of the search party. Crumrine was taken to the Bentleyville lockup which was almost immediately surrounded by a mob of angry townspeople in a mood to take the punishment of the man into their own hands and to carry it to any extreme.

Cries of wrath from the crowd and threats of lynching made the officers fear for Crumrine's life. He could not be got out of the lockup and to an automobile without running the gauntlet of the angry mob. The state police at Fredericktown were notified of the condition of affairs at Bntleyville.

Four members of the detachment went to Bentleyville and in their care Crumrine was taken to the Washington county jail. Feeling is still running high and it is possible that another demonstration will be made when Crumrine is brought back for his hearing.

George Crumrine is a former resident of Beallsville and is said to be a barber by trade.

NOT ENOUGH EVIDENCE JUST NOW, MURDER HEARING IS CONTINUED

Preliminary Trial of Reuben Warren For Kromer Killing Fails to Bring Out Anticipated Facts

Despite the fact that five witnesses were called at the hearing before Alderman R. L. Elwood Saturday evening, there did not seem to be enough evidence to warrant the holding of Reuben Warren for the killing of Peter J. Kromer at New Eagle on January 19 last. However, the case was continued until Monday or Tuesday when the members of the state police, who were interested in the cass, could be present to give testimony. He was let go today on his own recognizance.

Five witnesses were called. Mrs. Anna Hurd of McKeesport her husband, Ezra Hurd, and little daughter, Marguerite Hurd, testified that they had heard Warren say repeatedly that he had killed Kromer.

NO FIXED TIME TO ACCEPT ROADS

Deputy Attorney General Gives Opinion to State Highway Commissioner

DEPENDS ON CIRCUMSTANCES

The State Highway Department is not obligated to take over at any fixed time those portions of state highway routes that have been built previously by the county commissioners and are known as "county roads". Neither is it obligatory on the State Highway Department to take over at any specified time those portions of highway routes running through boroughs. This information was conveyed to State Highway Commissioner Cunningham by First Deputy Attorney General Keller in an opinion rendered in response to a request of the commissioner.

Deputy Attorney General Keller calls attention to the clear distinction between "county roads" and "township roads", which is made in the fifth section of the Sproul act. Under this act all township roads and abandoned and condemned turnpikes were directed specifically to be taken over by the State Highway Department. This provision did not apply to county roads which are governed by the clause which states: "Said highways are to be taken over in whole or in part from time to time as circumstances and conditions will permit."

IMMENSE CROWD VISITS LOCAL BATHING BEACH

One Accident With Some Degree of Seriousness Reported—"Swimming Crowded" During Greater Part of Day

The Charleroi Bathing beach was not so injured out what he could go one of the most popular resorts along home all right and is about today. the entire Monongahela valley Sunday and bathing was enjoyed there by hundreds, while hundreds more visited the beach who did not take advantage of the opportunity of bathing. Two or three accidents of a minor nature marred the day.

In a dive Clarence Keifel, aged about 18 of Donora brought up head first against what seemed to be a peg of a fence. He sustained a scalp cut about 1 1-2 inches long on the right side of the head, and had to be taken to a doctor's office. He was His was the worst accident of the day and one of the worst that ever occurred at the beach. Other accidents that were not in the least serious were reported.

In the afternoon it might be truly said that "swimming was crowded." There was no let up, the warm weather of the day driving people to the river shore. No estimate of the crowd that visited the beach during the day was taken but it was large, being one of the largest since the beach was opened.

FRANK EWING DIES AT HOME IN MONONGAHELA

Well Known Young Man Succumbs To Illness Lasting Several Years—Established Epworth League Publication.

At the home of his parents in Monongahela occurred the death of Frank Ewing, aged 29 years one of Monongahela's best known and exemplary young men. Death came after an illness lasting over a period of several years. He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ewing and was born in Union street Monongahela on July 9, 1886. He attended the public schools and graduated with the class of 1903.

On August 22, 1911, Mr. Ewing was joined in marriage with Miss Naomi Patterson and they went to housekeeping in his home at the corner of Lincoln and Grant streets. The happiness of married life however was brief as his illness began in April 1913 and from that time until his death he was a constant sufferer. He was removed to the Cresson sanitarium, but returned home after a few months and had been bedfast at the home of his parents ever since.

While an officer of the Epworth League Mr. Ewing founded the little magazine, "The Tither," which was published in the interest of the local Epworth League. Later it became so well known and such a permanent fixture that it was made the "Messenger" and was the official publication of the Washington District Epworth League.

Mr. Ewing was a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M, was assistant superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, was the second vice-president of the Washington District Epworth League and a member of the official board of the M. E. church, this city. He is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ewing and one brother, Charles of Monongahela. He was well known here.

MARRIED AT PARLORS OF A LOCAL HOTEL

Andrew M. Caster, of Monongahela and Miss Leona Mull of Coal Centre were married at the Myford hotel parlors this morning at 10 o'clock by Justice of the Peace L. Culbertson. They will probably live at Monongahela.

SQUARE DANCING TO BE WEEKLY PARK FEATURE

Club Plans for Every Tuesday Night—Tecolote Club, of California to Hold First Summer Dance Wednesday Night.

One of the chief features this week will be the beginning at Eldora park Tuesday evening of weekly sqaare dances under the auspices of a committee from Charleroi, of which Clarence Blythe is the representative. Then John A. Weber is arranging square dancing for his Friday night dances, with a "figure caller" who is known in the region to do the "calling."

On Wednesday night of this week the Tecolote club of California will give their first summer dance and as these Tecolote events are always interesting, a good time is ahead for those planning to attend.

Colored people will flock to Eldora by train and special car Thursday when the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows of Brownsville gives its annual picnic. The picnic is really for the entire Monongahela valley.

Following the Thursday event will come that on Thursday of the outing of the First Presbyterian Sunday school of Charleroi.

BLAINE TOWNSHIP FARMER DIES FROM INSECT'S STING

Death believed due to the sting of an insect, claimed Martin G. Ralston a well known farmer of Blaine township Sunday evening at his home. Mr. Ralston had been ill from the poison of the sting since last Tuesday and had been under the care of a physician from that time until the time of his death.

The cause of the poison that resulted in his death has not been made clear yet. Last Tuesday morning Mr. Ralston was feeding his cattle and in coming to the house said that something had stung him on the right wrist and as he was not feeling well he laid down. The arm began to swell and a physician was summoned who did everything in his power to reduce the swelling and counteract the poison. The swelling did not go down.

TWO AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED OVER SUNDAY

PETER DAILY IN JAIL NOW AT WASHINGTON FOR MOFFITT MURDER

Peter Daily, arrested at Eccles, West Virginia last Thursday, in connection with the murder of Charles Moffitt, an aged blacksmith at West Brownsville the night of January 8, was brought to the Washington county jail Sunday evening to await the August term of criminal court.

When news of the arrest of the man was received by Sheriff Lutton, County Detective F. H. Mitchell left for Harrisburg to secure requisition papers to get the man out of West Virginia. The county detective made the trip and got his man in good time.

The February grand jury found a true bill against Peter Daily so no preliminary hearing will be held.

Jitney Bus Topples Over Bank—Washington Machine Bumps Into Engine

FOUR IN MACHINE INJURED

Curve Fools Driver—Half-Hundred Names Taken by State Police on Riverside Road and Donora Bridge All Charged With Speeding.

The first automobile accident of any consequence on the new Riverside road from Monessen to Webster occurred on Saturday night when a jitney bus driven by Noah Bush, of Monessen went over the hill. A woman whose name is unknown suffered a sprained ankle. She was the worst injured. Other passengers were shaken up. At Washington four persons were injured Saturday midnight in a head-on collision by an auto with an engine, running light on the Western branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Houston.

In the Riverside road accident the wheels on one side of the bus ran off the brick paving. Earth at the edge of the road gave way and the bus tumbled down to the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie tracks.

Along the Riverside road on Sunday were stationed state police, and there was also one of a detachment along the Donora-Webster bridge. Numbers of speeding autoists were taken to the number of half-hundred, and these will be required to appear before a justice of the peace.

In the Washington accident those injured were:

All the injured are from Washington. They were coming to Washington when the engine came around a curve and crashed into the machine.

The automobile was demolished and the occupants were thrown out.

CHAUTAUQUA TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Among Favorites Will be Ben Greet Players and Sands' Band

TICKET SALE NOW GOING ON

The Redpath-Brockway Chautauqua which delighted local audiences a year ago, is booked to appear at the playgrounds on Tuesday of next week, continuing for seven days. Fourteen afternoon and evening programs with the usual morning lectures. Among the favorites to return this year will be the Ben Greet Players in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," and Sand's Military band. Patrons may secure season tickets now for two dollars, children half price. Later on the price will be advanced twenty-five per cent.

Those who have not pledged for tickets, but who contemplate patronizing the Chautauqua may procure the same from Prof. I. T. Daniel or Rev. W. G. Carl, both of whom can be reached by local 'phone.

LARGE NUMBER HERE ATTEND HOGE FUNERAL

A large number from Charleroi on Sunday attended the funeral services at Millsboro held for Frank Hoge, who was drowned in the Ohio river while swimming last week. The funeral was held at 1:30 o'clock. Hoge was a member of Charleroi lodge, No. 494, B. P O. Elks and was a member of the McKean Commandery, Knights' Templar.

FINE UNIFORMED RANK TO GIVE DRILLS AT THE MALTA PICNIC SATURDAY

One of the most magnificent and brilliant scenes ever staged at an outing of any organization will be the grand dress parade and drill competition of uniformed knights at the Western Pennsylvania outing and field day of the Ancient and Illustrious Order Knights of Malta, to be held at Kennywood park Saturday, uly 24. The uniformed rank of the order has attained the enviable reputation of being the finest drilled body of men in the world, outside of a strictly military organization, and thousands of people make it a point to get to the field day just in order to witness this spectacular review and competition.

Many members of the order from this city will attend, and delegations from all along the valley are anticipating making the trip.

CHILDREN AND MONEY.

A child learns that money has value long before it knows what money is. When a boy reaches the stage of desiring things that he knows his parents cannot provide for him, his natural instinct is to earn enough money of his own to get them. He will set to work in many ways to do this. The manual training schools help him.

This, then is the time to begin his serious instruction on how to save money, and if this beneficial understanding can be drilled into his mind to a degree that will fully make him understand its importance, he will be helped greatly throughout all his life, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. Nothing that boys and girls can learn at the very outstart exceeds in value the practice of thrift.

Money is not nearly so hard to get in the United States as in the countries of Europe, nor is thrift understood here as it is there. If the wage workers of the old world had the money earning chances that exist on this side their accumulations would total much more than they are now, ample as they seem to be to expand and furnishing enormous capital for carrying on the wars in which their governments are engaged.

Many banks are ever industriously encouraging thrift, and not from selfish motives, either, but because they understand, as everybody else should, that the higher the standard of property ownership and the larger the deposit of funds in banks, the greater the general prosperity. It is a benevolent principle that works good in many ways.

Parents, and particularly fathers with business training, should very carefully teach their children the value of money. The instruction should begin early, and should be impressed upon the mind that the saving of money and its judicious use is as much a public moral as it is a personal duty if in fact not more. Many who have acquired vast fortunes have done so by using money more as an instrument of power than as a means of mere private accumulation. Get a man of this kind going and he attracts dollars as the pole does the magnetic needle.

MUST HAVE CLEAN RECORDS

During his three days' visit to Pittsburg Senator Boise Penrose made it clear that he is unalterably opposed to rewarding those who three years ago made it possible to elect a Democratic President. In two separate and distinct cases Senator Penrose proclaimed his opposition to nominating candidates for public office who had opposed the Republican party when it was being assaulted from within and without, and he renewed his former declaration that now is not the party had returned to its own, only its loyal supporters should be nominated and supported for the several offices to be filled.

Senator Penrose always has argued that selfish greed for places had prompted the destructive war against the Republican party throughout the nation. He contends, and rightly, too, that the war against the Republican policies and principles resulted in great distress not only to business of every kind, but to wage-earners as well, and he firmly believes that confidence in the Republican party is only possible by insisting upon the advancement of those who have party responsibility and have faith and confidence in party regularity.

The position taken by Senator Penrose on this particular question is certain to be approved by Republicans generally. The Republican party is not now in position to assume responsibility for men concerned only in office holding. Party responsibility demands not only faithful services from public officials but the highest grace of official life from those rewarded with the places the party has to give.

A few accidents that are entirely unpreventable are not going to detract from the popularity of the Bathing beach. In a place as well patronized as it is, accidents may be expected. But isn't a slight occasional accident better than drownings which would naturally occur were it not for the beach?

To obtain possession of a minute quantity of morphine to relieve pain or induce sleep a man must get a prescription, identify himself and prove that he is of irreproachable character but any lunatic can buy without the slightest difficulty a ton of dynamite to blow up a church, a public building or a ship.—New York Sun.

Quite naturally Sunday had its automobile and other accidents. More and more we are running pleasure into the ground.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A Canadian named Casey was appointed to a government place. Technically, it had to be held by a lawyer, which Casey was not. The benchers of the law society, however, undertook to obviate the technicality.

"Well, Casey," said the examiner, "what do you know about law, anyhow?"

"To tell the truth," replied the candidate, "I don't know a single thing."

The examiner reported in his affidavit, "that he had examined Mr. Casey as to his knowledge of the law and to the best of his information and belief, he had answered the questions that he had put to him correctly." The aspirant was therefore admitted.

A short answer is long remembered.

Luke McLuke Says:

Always remember that if you try to live a double life you will have to do two men's work.

What has become of the old fashioned country lad whose daddy made him walk to church barefooted, but who had to stop and put on his socks and shoes before he entered the church?

We all believe in heaven. But mighty few of us live as though we wanted to be sure of getting there when we die.

When a princess purchases a six carat diamond for 69 cents she has to feel her chin every two seconds to make sure that her chin is still there.

When they are first married they know that filthy lucre can never come between them and that money can never disturb the happiness of their great love. And about a year later they have a battle every Saturday because he is short a dollar in his pay.

Of course we will have to admit that the men are a lot of mutts and that they do a lot of fool things at times. But until we see two of them kiss when they meet on the street we are going to maintain that they have more sense than women.

It has got so in this country that success means losing your health hunting for wealth so you will have enough money to travel around and try to regain your health.

The old time tads who did their traveling in the prairie schooners never worried about icebergs or torpedoes, and they saw America first.

Any old time a man goes to the races and buys a ticket on a horse that is an eleven-year-old maiden which is half turtle and half snail and the rest of the horses in the race fall down and break their legs and his horse wins he spends the rest of his life telling his friends that Pittsburgh Phil and Riley Grannan were blind babies at the racing game.

This business of naming babies after presidents has its drawbacks. In a few years from now many a public school yard will be the scene of many a rough and tumble fight between William Howard Taft Smith and Theodore Roosevelt Jones.

SOME LIVELY MIX-UP

UNHAPPINESS IN THE HOME OF ELDER BERRY.

According to His Story He "Ondured" Much Before He Got His Mind Made Up to "Git Onmarried"

"Your wife alleges that you were cruel to her," charged the judge; "that you first insulted her, then knocked her down and trod upon her. How about it?"

"Me an' dat woman been trabbelin' double 'bout 'leben days. I done tuk her to be de wife o' mah buzzum, an' she done stung me in dat buzzum, an' fudehmo'.

"Day befo' yistiday evenin' I come moseyin' 'long homewards 'bout suppeh time. Dat two bits I wuz gwine to spend fo' de decoratin' fo' de new hat I wuz gwine to wear to de Sistehs o' John de Baptis's sociable. Po'k chops—smack!—dat's wha it am!'

"An' ebbery time she say 'smack!'—laik dat—she lamm me annudeh one wif dat chunk.

"Jedge, youah honah, dat jes' seemed to be mo' dan I could ondure, specially fum a strange niggah I ain' knowed mo'n two weeks at the mos'es'. Me an' dat cheer got up in de corner, an' I sez: 'Is you all gwine to continue dis bizniz?' An' she sez: 'Smack! — po'k chops, niggah — smack!'

"An' ef she done got sawt o' spilled about some as I wuz passin', dat ain' no fault o' mine."

Colonies of Two Nations.

The loss of Brazil brought the Portuguese dominion down from the proud position it held at the beginning of the nineteenth century. But at the beginning of the twentieth century she remained the mistress of a colonial empire surpassed only by Great Britain, France and Germany. The climate of the Portuguese colonies is, however, unsuitable for European colonization, and the colonies have no commercial value commensurate with their great extent. The Portuguese colonies are: In Africa, Cape Verde islands, St. Thomas, Madeira and Prince's islands; Portuguese Guiana, Angola, Portuguese East Africa or Mozambique; in India, Goa, Damaun, Piu; in China, Macao; in the Malay archipelago, part of Timor. The total area is 803,000 square miles, of which 794,000 square miles are in Africa.

The Dutch colonies in the Malay archipelago number 600,000 square miles. The West Indian dependencies of Holland are Dutch Guiana or Surinam, the Dutch Antilles or Curaçao and its dependencies, comprising, altogether, a total area of 60,000 square miles.

External Use.

English men-of-war have no ice-making machines on board, as do our ships, and everybody knows how the English fail to understand us on the subject of the use of ice, especially in our drinks.

An English officer was aboard one of our ships of the Asiatic fleet and, on being served with an iced drink, commented on the delights of having cool water aboard. The American officer responded with an offer of a small cake of ice, which was sent the following morning. Meeting the Englishman ashore a week later, the American asked him if he had enjoyed the ice.

The Joy of Obliviousness.

"How did you like my turning off the gas at ten while you and that young fool were in the parlor last night?" asked her father.

"Did you?" she responded innocently; and father knew the true meaning of the word "failure."—Philadelphia Public Ledger

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY FROM GRIGGSBY'S STATION BY JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

But where's the peace and comfort that we all had before?
Let's go a-visitin' back to Griggsby's Station—
Back where we ust to be so happy and so pore!

The likes of us a-livin' here! It's jes' a mortal pity
To see us in this great big house, with evarpets on the stairs,
And the pump right in the kitchen! And the city! city! city!—
And nothin' but the city all around us ever'-wheres!

Back where the latch-string's a-hangin' from the door,
And ever' neighbor round the place is dear as a relation
Back where we ust to be so happy and so pore!

Message No. 1

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings. Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend and Dutch Boy linseed oil, mixed right on the job, to suit the job. Have your painter tint it any color you wish. Consult your paint dealer on that job of painting you have in mind. Today's the day.

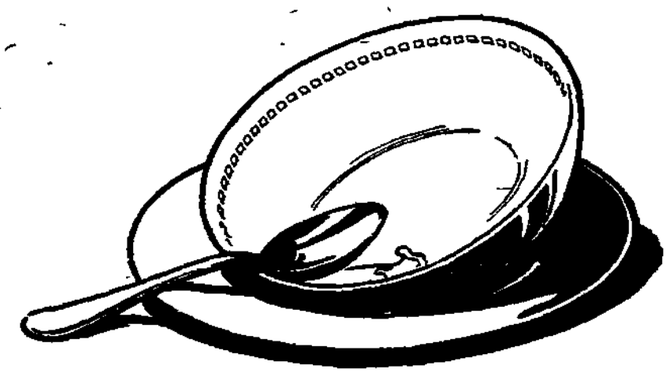
When some men promise a certain thing by Saturday, it is always wise to inquire which Saturday.



The Empty Bowl Tells the Story

The highest compliment that can be paid any food is to eat it heartily to the last portion.

Every day there are hundreds of thousands of such compliments paid to Post Toasties.

This wide appreciation encouraged the bettering of this delightful food. And the result is

New Post Toasties

Crisper, more appetizing and better than ever before.

The inner sweet meats of choicest Indian Corn are skillfully cooked, daintily seasoned, and toasted by a new process that brings out a wonderful "toastie" corn flavour.

These flakes do not mush down when cream or milk is added, but retain their body and crispness. They come to you ready to eat from the FRESH-SEALED, dust-proof, germ-proof package—as sweet and delicious as when they leave the ovens.

WHEN LOST IN THE WOODS

In Farm and Fireside a contributor reports some things he has learned from Indians. If you have occasion to do much traveling away from beaten roads, especially in the woods, you may profit by these helps. Following is an extract from the article:

"When passing through a wooded country for the first time, if you intend returning the same way or practically the same way, blaze the trees by snipping the bark at the height of your own head every few hundred yards. This will give you your direction when returning. Or, to prevent getting into the circle habit, break off branches of the bushes or low-hung limbs of the trees you pass. But if you do get lost keep cool, do not run around, but give signals of distress. Start a fire if your match case is with you, as it always should be whether you smoke or not. But if you have no matches take a dry handkerchief or cotton lining of your coat, scrape out a very fine lint, as much as you can.

"Get some fine dead fiber from the inner portion of bark or small dry twigs or grass. By using the crystal of your watch, compass or spectacles a sunglass can be made that will ignite the lint (if the sun is shining) that can be blown into a fire. Pile damp wood on your fire and a dense smoke will arise far above the tree tops and quickly attract attention. Two fires should be built, one removed a few yards from the other. This constitutes a well-known signal of distress among woodsmen. If it is in the night time select a high hill or ridge on which but little timber is growing so that the blaze from the two fires may be seen a long distance.

Feeding the Poor.

The public kitchen is an experimental New York institution backed by women of wealth and standing. The project is directed by the social welfare department of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. A profit of 3 per cent is to be taken. The first unit will be multiplied as occasion warrants. Food will be served on the spot and at homes, carried in containers of several compartments and heated by hot water.

Gambling at Monte Carlo.

A Monte Carlo dispatch says gambling is rampant again after four and a half months of enforced inactivity. There is no gold or silver shining on the green cloth; ivory checks have taken their places, but roulette and trente-et-quarante are going on at a few tables. The revival, however, has not sufficed to restore the season's usual animation to the town. The hotels are nearly empty.

Old International Arbitration.

Discussing 82 inscriptions which record settlements of disputes between the ancient Greeks and other nations, M. N. Tod finds a system of international arbitration that will compare favorably with the modern. Tribunals were appointed by spontaneous agreement, by the intervention of friendly powers or by compulsion, and made decisions often on grave questions, such as disputed territory. The use of arbitration began in the second century B. C., and the method was known also in Egypt and Babylonia. Sometimes it was refused and, as at present, it sometimes failed to effect a permanent settlement.

Weber Male Quartet

THE Weber Male Quartet is in every sense a high class organization, composed of four of the well known concert and church soloists of New York city. An association of several years in successful concert and phonograph work has resulted in the beautiful blending, the clearness of enunciation and the artistic distinction which are the essentials of a really satisfactory quartet. The Weber Male Quartet is progressive in adding to its repertory, and its versatility and genial bearing have been unfailingly successful wherever it has appeared. The personnel of the Weber Male Quartet is likewise unique in that each man is a musician as well as a singer. The quartet will appear on all Redpath-Brockway Chautauquas during the coming season.

SINGS IN THE FRENCH CAMPS

The role that the minstrel Taillefer played at Hastings, that Roland took at Roncevaux and Blondel filled when he found the imprisoned Coeur de Lion in an Austrian castle, is being played in the present war by Theodore Botrel, the Breton poet, who has been sent to the fighting line by M. Millerand, the French minister of war, to sing and recite patriotic and warlike chansons to the French soldiers, to inspire them to mighty deeds. For the last two months or more the picturesque Breton singer, with his sleek hair, his wide hat brim, his flying ribbon and voluminous velvet breeches, looking for all the world like the painted figure in a piece of Breton pottery, has been traveling, staff in hand, from camp to camp, entertaining the fighting men of France with stirring ballads. Botrel's work smacks of ancient warfare and its customs more even than the breastplate, hand grenades and spears which have proved their value on several occasions. No one knew who thought of the plan, but, at any rate M. Millerand put it into effect, and Botrel has made a great impression upon the French armies. The soldiers are gathered together in a big hall, an impromptu and generally insecure platform is rigged up and Botrel stands forth to recite his songs, some in the Breton dialect, others in French, but all touched with the lyric flame that carries simple words and simple thoughts straight to the hearts of the hearers.

Signs Shot Into Place.

A gun which shoots signs into place has been invented, which, in appearance, is not unlike a shotgun. The sign, which it discharges, is rolled tightly about a heavy stick and a cord is attached to a tack which is temporarily fastened, point out, at one end of this. The other end of the string is fastened to the top of the sign. When the instrument is loaded with one of these and the trigger pulled, heavy springs furnish the propelling force, which sends the roll endwise through the air like an arrow, at whatever object it is aimed. The tack imbeds itself, while the jar of the impact loosens the sign and makes it unroll, falling into place.

AT LEAST SATISFIES HUNGER

Evening Meal Served on Japanese Street Would Not, However, Appeal to the Fastidious.

It was toward evening when a slovenly looking fellow with a traveling restaurant landed on the street corner, rang a little bell and announced to all that the evening repast was now in readiness, says a correspondent of the Christian Herald. Many of the poor people nowadays find it hard to buy a morsel of rice or even barley, and as a last resort turn to this "macaroni" restaurant, where they are able to get a meal for one or two cents. I wondered if this man got his supply from the manufacturer whom I saw kneading the dough on a straw mat with his feet, not a great distance away.

Dipping ball after ball of this "macaroni" into boiling water and again in succession into separate bowls, the vendor adds a sprinkling of cheap soy and green onion cuttings and sticking into them the crudest kind of chopsticks, presents them to his miscellaneous crowd of customers. Sturdy coolies leave their cart shafts, haggard women release loads of boxes and bundles from their backs, precocious children sorely in need of handkerchiefs and staggering under the heavy load of an often unwearied younger brother or sister, aged from two weeks to three or four years—all hollow-chested on account of excessive toil and their constant stooping posture, with great rapidity bolt down this seething mess. The noisy gulpings and much gurgling and sucking in of the breath which so distress a Westerner may be excused by the fact that in their minds it only shows a polite appreciation of their food.

Prayed He Might Fight Again.

"Louis is still here on sick leave. He was awfully battered up and is so nervous he can't hold his hands quiet for a moment. It was the concussion of a bursting shell that flung him against a stone wall, you know. He was in the hospital a month. He is getting a little better now, and every morning and evening I hear him praying. 'What in the world are you praying for?' I asked him. He had hard work steadying his voice. 'I—I'm praying,' he stammered, 'that the war won't be over before I can get back.' What are you going to do with a spirit like that?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer

New Woman Is a Marrying Woman.

The alarmist assertions that the spread of "feminist" doctrine is going to destroy the home are disproved by statistics. More women marry today than did in 1900. There has been a gain of nearly 2 per cent in the number of marriages of women over fifteen in the last 20 years.

Among the 30,000,000 married women whom the last census takers report, only 135,065 had been divorced. Ida Tarbell calls this a "small per cent of disaster" and says that there is no other human relation that can show anything like so large a statistical proof of suc-

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, step elastic, and I lost that weak, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KREAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

COKEBURG BEFEATS THE CHARLEROI BASEBALL TEAM

At Cokeburg Saturday, the Charleroi team was beaten by the Cokeburg nine by the score of 3 to 1. McIlvaine did the twirling for Charleroi and did it effectively. However D. Campbell for Cokeburg, who was on the rubber, was invincible, Charleroi getting but five hits off his delivery. Guder secured two of them. The game was interesting throughout. Charleroi's lineup consisted of Oates, Samier, J. Stark, Nichols, Guder. Claybaugh, Kuhn, Furnier, McIlvaine and Boyce.

WILDCATS BEAT SIGMOND JUNIORS BY SCORE 13-10

The Ninth street Wildcats defeated the Sigmond Juniors on the Lock No. 4 diamond Sunday by the score of 13 to 10. The Sigmonds s cored 6 of their runs in the second inning and failed to get more until the eighth when they scored four runs. The sensation of the game was the fielding of Pinfold, Rigby and F. Houston of the Wildcats. The batteries were for the Wildcats, Rose and Scanlon and for the Sigmonds, Sigmond and Brigo. The Wildcats got 13 hits and made b ut four errors, while the Sigmonds got but 6 hits and had 6 errors. The Wildcats challenge any 14 and 15 year old teams, requesting the Mangan Juniors to take notice. For games John Doffia, Sixth and Washington is to be seen.

COUNTY PAST GRANDS ARRANGE FOR MEETING

The I. O. O. F., Past Grand association of Washington county, will hold the next meeting at Beallsville on Saturday evening, July 24, and extensive preparations are being made by Beallsville lodge No. 282 to receive the visitors. Several hundred members of the association from all parts of the county are expected to attend, as well as hundreds of Odd Fellows from the different community lodges.

The local lodge has secured permission f rom the Beallsville school board to use the school house for the meeting, as the local hall is deemed much too small for such an assemblage. Plans for the entertainment of the visiting fraters are about complete.

SANDY PLAINS PROGRAM TO INCLUDE GOOD RACES

Race Meet to be Featured Wednesday and Thursday of Next Week—Prizes For Best Horses.

The Sandy Plains' Fair Association has mapped out its program of racing events to take place at the Sandy Plains' fair grounds on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. B. Frank Emery, secretary of the association was in Charleroi this morning looking after matters pertaining to the meet. Prizes for the first three events will be $200, for the free-for-all $300, and for the run $75. The Thursday program will begin with a trot for horses never started for money, then will follow at 2:19 pace, a 2:25 pace, each for a prize of $200, a 2:17 trot for a $300 prize and a one mile dash for $100 of a prize.

DREAD ACTION WITH BAYONET

Women Whose Loved Ones Are at the Front Pray They May Not Be Forced to Use It.

"In a house which I visited recently," writes a correspondent from Paris, "a lady whose son was about to leave to join the colors spent days in anguish and prayer, not over the parting, not over fear for her boy's safety, but in dread lest he should have to fight with his bayonet. That he should be killed, she was prepared to meet, that he should drive his bayonet into a fellowbeing was more than her motherhood could support. Her prayers were answered. Her son was detailed to the field telephone service, a position of far greater danger than in a trench, but the mother is happy. It was all she asked of God and her country.

"I know another woman, a poor laboring woman of the people, who says, 'I pray every hour of the day that my husband won't go to the bayonet, for I don't know what the poor man would do. He could not, my husband could not kill a man whose face he looked upon.'

"Among many women this is the greatest terror, that their loved ones will be forced to kill at close quarters. It is a strange point of view that I confess I had never thought of, probably because I have no one involved, but it seems to me to indicate that civilization, the advancement of the race, is not in the hands of governments and kings, but in the hearts of women like these."

Archangel, City of Ice.

Archangel, the oldest port of the Russian empire, will awaken in a few weeks more to vital war importance, according to a statement of the National Geographic society. When the arctic ice clears from the White sea Russia will be able to communicate with her allies through a free western port and to receive much needed war supplies and other manufactures over a route thousands of miles shorter than that via Vladivostok. Archangel is situated at the head of the Dvina delta, as far north as the northernmost shores of Hudson Bay. It is the largest and most important city that is near the arctic circle.

The harbor of Archangel is optimistically said to be open from May to October. However, it is entirely free from ice during the months of July and August, although in the average year it is free for navigating purposes for a period some weeks longer. The city lies on the Dvina river, 26 miles from the White sea. It is 740 miles northeast of St. Petersburg, and is connected with the distributing centers of the interior by railway and canal.
